

It is my understanding that the FCC is now considering making changes to the way FM radio is heard in my community. Advocates of a new broadcast service known as Low Power FM (LPFM) are proposing to expand this service in a way that would allow the new LPFM stations to take priority over current FM translator service.

I must admit that I'm very concerned about this proposed change. I listen to K-LOVE radio, a national and regional broadcaster with many local FM translators used to bring the Positive & Encouraging K-LOVE signal to communities across the nation.

In many ways, K-LOVE serves you as a resident of the local community and provides Christian music that is not being broadcast over any other medium in this area. As a result, K-LOVE provides a positive influence over our local community that I'd like to see sustained. If K-LOVE were to be displaced by an LPFM broadcaster providing other programming, the impact would be felt over not just Fort Collins, but much of the country. I believe that the service provided by K-LOVE is in the public interest because it offers music and news that is simply not available over the airwaves from other radio station in this area.

Bearing this in mind, I'm requesting that you not expand this service in a way that would allow the new LPFM stations to take priority over current FM translator service. Thank you for your time and consideration in this matter.
